No Criticism Is Given On Newkirk Budget; 2 Propose Sales Tax Here

Glennon Praises City Services, Wants Nuisance Fee to Relieve Strain

Rate Is $51.76

Higher County, State Taxes, Wage Hikes Boost Total

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk's proposed 1952 budget was received without voiced objection to any of its items at a public hearing Friday night.

Two property owners said they felt the city must soon resort to a sales tax in order to relieve the burden on real estate owners, and a Tenth Ward representative asked that an item be included to provide for the use of School No. 8 as a recreation center and playground after the new Washington School is opened. Otherwise, there were few comments made at the hearing, which was attended by 22 persons, most of them city officials.

The tentative budget if adopted as presented Friday will set the 1952 tax rate at $51.76 a thousand, a boost of $3.20 over this year's rate.

The amount to be raised by taxation is estimated at $1,625,139.25. This is $127,794.56 above the amount raised by taxes in 1951.

Reasons for increase

Salary increases, higher state and county taxes, and increased debt service account for most of the increase.

Helping to offset increased costs to some extent is a $15,000 estimated surplus for the year 1951—the first surplus experienced by the city in a number of years. Estimated deficit for the year 1950 was $17,079.80 according to an item in the budget presented last year at this time.

John Glennon, local electrician said during Friday night's hearing at the Common Council chambers that while he thought the city is "doing a wonderful job" it will "have to consider some other means of raising revenue besides property taxes."

He indicated that the people are satisfied with city services and are willing to pay for them, but the costs are "building up to a point where something has got to be done."

Says Owners "Squeezed"

Stating that the property owner is being "squeezed," he said that "sooner or later somebody's got to take the initiative" in levying other types of taxes.

Asked by Mayor Newkirk if he thought the city should impose the so-called "nuisance taxes," Glennon replied, "You have got to, or else cut down city services."

Another property owner, who refused to give his name to reporters, asked, "Why is it this governing body shrugs its shoulders on a sales tax?"

Would Raise Rates

He said that tenants "are getting off pretty easy in this city," pointing out that real estate taxes continue to increase while federal and state rent control laws hold property owners to a six per cent return. He contended that the rent control officials "forgot that little old goddess holding up the scales of equality. She has ceased to exist in the eyes of those people."

He pointed out that other cities on the Hudson have two per cent sales taxes.

Wants Money in Budget

Alderman James J. Carroll of the Tenth Ward, who on Jan. 1 will leave his post in the Common Council to become the ward's representative on the Board of Supervisors, asked that money be provided in the budget to turn School No. 8 into a recreation center and playground after that school is

May Use '52 Tags Monday

Albany, Dec. 29 (AP)—You can attach the "52" tag to the rear license plate of your car at midnight Monday, but it's not required until midnight Jan. 31.

The State Bureau of Motor Vehicles reminded car owners again today that both front and rear 1951 plates must be retained on their automobiles for 1952.

To save steel, no new plates are being issued. The "52" tag must be attached to the lower righthand corner of the rear plate.

Hauffe Indicted For Grand Larceny In Store Robbery

Five Open, Nine Sealed Indictments Are Filed by Grand Jury; Two Are Dismissed

Five open indictments, nine sealed and two dismissals were filed by the grand jury Friday when the December grand jury reported to Supreme Court Justice Harry F. Schirick.

Those named in open bills were assigned by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn and pleas of not guilty entered. Cases were transferred to county court for further action.

No indictments were found in the case of Edwin Forrest Carey, who had been held for grand jury action on assault, second degree charges, and in the case of Percy Brodhead, charged with grand larceny, third degree. They were discharged.

Had Money in Bed

William A. Hauffe, 25, Brooklyn, was indicted for grand larceny first degree, for the alleged taking of money from a Sauer's store. On Oct. 27 the Newberry store in Sauer's was robbed of $2,500.

Just as the store was closing for the day a man allegedly entered a rear door and while the manager was in conversation in front of the store with Louis J. Minichelli, 31, Sauer's graduate of a school of criminology, Mrs. Minichelli, 28, engaged as cashier, was "stuck up" with a gun and relieved of the cash in a shopping bag. Police were notified of the robbery and a description of the man was given by Mrs. Minichelli. Later after an investigation police went to the Minichelli home in Sauer's and there found Hauffe, a friend of the family, asleep upstairs with a third of the missing money in bed with him. The balance was found in paper bags in other parts of the house. All three were arrested and held for grand jury action.

Other Indictments

James Wilbert McNeill, Milton, was charged with violation of Sec.

Program Opens Sunday With Radio Link Between City, Britain

Letters of endorsement, reflecting pride and encouragement, have been received by the committee planning the 300th anniversary for Kingston, which opens Sunday with an international broadcast.

A communication from Governor Thomas E. Dewey has been received, also one from Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city, following that sent earlier in the week by President Harry S. Truman from Washington, D. C.

The broadcast Sunday at 2 p. m., emanating from WKNY, will link this city with Kingston-on-Thames, England. Officials will exchange greetings to start the tercentenary.

Governor Writes

In his letter expressing hopes for a glorious and successful celebration, Governor Dewey said in part:

On the occasion of this tercentenary celebration it should be a matter of real pride for the people of Kingston to look back upon the events which earned for their city the right to be known as the "Cradle of New York State."

It was in Kingston that New York state's first academy was opened in 1724. It was in the Court House on Wall street that the first New York state Constitution was adopted April 20, 1777. Three months later, July 30, 1777, George Clinton stood upon an upturned barrel in front of that same building to take the oath of office as New York state's first governor. The Senate House, still standing on Clinton avenue in Kingston, where New York state's first Senate met, is one of our state's most cherished historic sites. Had not the British driven the state government from Kingston

Lewis Says Firm Knew Of Danger

Makes Statement After Official Report on Cause of Blast That Killed 119 Men

Avoids Clash President of Company Mum Until He Makes Full Study

Benton, Ill., Dec. 29 (AP)—John L. Lewis blames the mine management for the blast which killed 119 men near West Frankfort last week, saying it knew three to five days before the explosion the coal mine was not safe.

The United Mine Workers president made his statement yesterday after the U. S. Bureau of Mines, in a preliminary report, said electricity or smoking set off the blast Dec. 21.

The bureau also released inspection reports of last January and July which noted "serious hazards" at the ill-fated mine. In capital letters they cited "serious hazards similar to those that have caused heavy loss of life or destruction of property in coal mines."

The January-July reports said inspectors found in the mine cigarette butts and match stems and improperly shielded electrical gear where dangerous gas might accumulate.

Blames Gas

Lewis, who headed a team of union investigators at the disaster scene said "squeezing"—the shifting of earth around the tunnel—released great quantities of methane gas from coal seams three to five days before the explosion.

The Chicago, Wilmington & Franklin Coal Company, operator of the mine, should have closed off those areas affected until gas was cleared out, Lewis said.

In Chicago, George B. Harrington, president of the company said he hadn't had time to fully study any of the reports and didn't want to enter a controversy with Lewis.

"The blast was a horrible thing," Harrington said. "The company has just as big a heart as the miners, and we feel just as bad as they do."

Coal Dust Ignited

The Federal Bureau's report, issued in Washington by Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, said present evidence shows that electrical equipment ignited methane—a light, odorless gas produced in mines by decomposition of organic matter—which in turn ignited clouds of coal dust.

Cigarettes and matches were found during rescue operations, the report continued, leading investigators to believe "the possibility of smoking as an ignition source cannot be entirely disregarded."

The Federal Bureau declared large accumulations of coal dust were present in the affected

Fire Captain Convicted

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Fire Capt. Gustave A. Olsen, 51, a veteran of 23 years, was convicted yesterday of departmental charges that he ordered firemen under him to sign a logbook for a suspended fireman who was in Hollywood. He was fined 20 days pay on three charges and transferred to another fire house. The charges were failure to discharge official duties, conduct unbecoming an officer and bringing discredit on the department.

Tears Follow Conviction

Mrs. Evelyn Cronin (center) former maid of Tallulah Bankhead, breaks into tears in anteroom of New York's Court of General Sessions, Dec. 28, after being convicted of larceny for hiking the actress' checks. Also sobbing on Mrs. Cronin's shoulder is her adopted daughter, Josie, who, said of Tallulah: "I hate her. I hate her. She is a horrible woman." At right is the 59-year-old Mrs. Cronin's attorney, State Senator Fred G. Morrill, who was cited for contempt by Judge Harold A. Stevens, for conducting the case "loudly and belligerently." An all-male jury deliberated less than five hours to find the white-haired, 59-year-old Mrs. Cronin guilty on each of three counts of second-degree larceny. Continued in $1,000 bail pending sentencing Jan. 24, she faces a maximum of 7½ to 15 years in prison. (Associated Press Photo)

Important Concession Made by UN

Communists Agree to Divulge Fate of 50,000 Unaccounted for Prisoners

Six Point Program Reluctant Agreement Is Made to Ban Flights During Armistice

Munsan, Korea, Dec. 29 (AP)—The United Nations negotiators made their "most important concession" today in a move to break the long Korean truce talks deadlock. And the Communists agreed to divulge the fate of some 50,000 unaccounted for war prisoners.

The UN negotiators said they would abandon their demand for aerial reconnaissance and negotiate the question of troop rotation if the Reds would accept without change a new compromise plan for policing a truce.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official UN spokesman, said the decision to withdraw the demand for aerial observation during an armistice was made "with the greatest reluctance."

"This is by far the most important concession the UN command has made," he said.

Deal on Prisoners

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby said the Communists "grudgingly" agreed to supply information on all UN and South Korean soldiers they have captured. In return, the UN allies will give the Reds further data on the list of Red prisoners given the Communists Dec. 18.

The Communists indicated Saturday that many of the 50,000 prisoners the UN says the Reds reported capturing but failed to list on the official prisoner roster were released at the front and their names not recorded. Most of the 50,000 were South Koreans.

Libby said the UN is not too hopeful the Reds will supply much additional information "but at least we got our foot in the door."

Nuckols told correspondents the UN command decided to take a "calculated risk" that ground inspection would detect whether the Reds were building up military air bases in North Korea.

Together on Three Points

Truce negotiators already have agreed in principle on three points of the six-point compromise proposal offered Saturday.

Points 4, 5 and 6 of the allied proposals:

4. Neither side would "reinforce" ground or air forces in Korea.

Troops would be rotated "within the limits agreed upon by both sides." Neither side would be allowed to build or rehabilitate military airfields, but would be permitted to improve a limited number of bases for civilian use. And neutral supervisors would inspect mutually agreed ports of entry to make sure neither side built up its armed strength while an armistice was in force.

5. Each side would provide an equal number of representatives for a military armistice commission responsible for supervision and inspection. Joint teams would police the 2½ mile wide buffer zone, while a supervisory body made up of representatives of neutral nations would check ports of entry.

Inspection Set-up

6. Nations acceptable to both sides, which have not participated in the war would be invited to inspection.

Newkirk to Push For Winter Use Of Rail Underpass

Lack of Consideration to City to Keep Traffic off New Artery, Mayor Declares

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk last night revealed his intention of conferring with Lipssett, Inc., and the State Department of Public Works to find out why the Broadway railroad underpass cannot be opened to traffic this winter.

To keep traffic off the underpass during the winter would be a lack of consideration for the city of Kingston, the mayor contended.

Saying he was "disturbed" by an article in Friday evening's Freeman reporting that Joseph L. Thomas, construction superintendent for Lipssett, Inc., said, "As things are now, I wouldn't build any hope that we'll be able to open it this winter," Mayor Newkirk made the following statement:

'Assured by Lipssett'

"I was assured by Lipssett, Inc., and the superintendent, Mr. Thomas, that when the job was closed down for the winter they would make the underpass available for the public's use until such time as it became necessary to start the job up again in the spring."

"It is my intention to confer with Lipssett, Inc., and the New York State Department of Public Works to determine if the underpass cannot be used during the winter, why."

"It would appear to me that to keep traffic off the underpass for the winter months is not giving

Liberated After U. S. Pays $120,000 to Hungary, Referred to as Bandit Nation

Patience Taxed Consulates Are Closed in Cleveland-N.Y.; Travel Banned

Erlding, Germany, Dec. 29 (AP)—Four American airmen told U. S. Intelligence officers today the full story of how they were forced down in Communist Hungary by Russian fighters, tried in secret by a military court and held in 40 days of captivity.

Their story, oral report began at 9 a. m. (3 a. m. EST) in the office of Col. Park Holland of Albany, N. Y., the Erlding Airbase commander, and lasted most of the morning.

The fliers scheduled an afternoon news conference to make public their tale of captivity and punishment.

Secret interrogation of the four was suspended an hour at noon to permit them to eat lunch, and then was resumed. It was likely the long questioning might delay the start of the press conference.

They were liberated at dusk last night after the United States paid fines totaling $120,000.

None on Tactical Flights

Intelligence officers were believed chiefly concerned in finding out whether the Reds were able to extract any American military information from the men.

None of the men was assigned to tactical operations.

All were regularly engaged in transport flying. Three—Capt. David Henderson, 32, of Shawnee, Okla., commander of the downed C-47 cargo plane; Capt. John J. Swift, 34, of Glens Falls, N. Y., co-pilot; and T/Sgt. Jess A. Duff, 32, of Spokane, Wash., the mechanic—are veterans of the Berlin airlift.

The fourth crewman is Sgt. James A. Elam, 20-year-old radio man from Kingsland, Ark.

They spent the night resting behind sentry-guarded doors, after landing here to a heroes' welcome shortly before midnight.

Tired and Nervous

They were tired, haggard and nervous. But they appeared healthy and well-fed and were reported to have been "relatively well treated" by their Red captors.

Unknown to themselves, because they were held incommunicado even from each other—but well known to their Hungarian custodians—the men had become diplomatic TNT, warranting careful handling to keep from adding more explosives to public and official indignation in the United States.

Left Erlding Nov. 19 in a Workhorse C-47 cargo plane for a daylight "milk run" to Yugoslavia with a load of supplies for the U. S. embassy in Belgrade. They got lost, were shot at by Romanian and Hungarian border artillery, ran low on fuel and finally were forced down in Hungary by Russian fighter planes based in the ex-enemy satellite country.

Freedom in Dark

Freedom came in the black mist of early dark at Nickelsdorf, on the Austro-Hungarian border two hours after United States officials in Budapest counted out $120,000 worth of Hungarian forints to pay fines.

The Hungarian military court convicted them in a quick one-day trial on Dec. 23, of deliberately violating the border. It fined them $30,000 each, with the alternative of spending 90 days in a Hungarian jail, and confiscated their plane, valued at $97,500.

The United States cracked down with reprisals as soon as the Inspection Twice a Year for Cars Will Be Urged by Governor Dewey

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—Governor Dewey will urge the Legislature to adopt compulsory, twice-a-year state inspection of automobiles.

He believes a statewide system of state-operated stations could be self-supporting by charging motorists 75 cents for each semi-annual inspection.

In his annual message to the Legislature, which will be convened Jan. 9, Dewey will outline a highway safety program also calling for:

1.—A possible reduction in automobile insurance premiums for "safe" drivers.

2.—An increase in the starting salary for the state police, from $1,680 to possibly $2,000, and a reduction in rigid physical requirements in order to increase the force from 700 to its authorized strength of 900.

3.—A survey to determine how many motorists are uninsured, a move which might herald an eventual recommendation for compulsory liability insurance in New York state.

4.—Adoption by more communities of scholastic and adult automobile driver-training courses.

Informed capitol sources said Dewey would stress mounting traffic deaths in New York state in support of the need for a definitive program for highway safety.

Dewey will tell the lawmakers that the Joint Legislative Committee on motor vehicle problems is preparing a uniform vehicle code that would make New York highway rules conform with those of other states.

Dewey first urged the Legislature six years ago to adopt a program requiring periodic inspection of motor vehicles as a safety measure. The Joint Legislative Committee also has recommended several times the adoption of such a plan.

Dewey, predicting that New York's highway death toll for the year will hit the 2,000 mark, will tell the Legislature that states with compulsory inspection of vehicles have highway death and accident rates 40 per cent under the national average.

Surveys indicate that at least one of every three cars on the road have some type of mechanical defect, Dewey will contend.

Budget Experts Called After Truman Sees 'Loads'

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—President Truman, back from a Christmas visit to his Missouri home, juggled a heavy load of top-priority problems today, one reportedly concerning next year's military budget.

Military and mobilization officials showed him their recommendations for national defense spending at a 45-minute White House meeting yesterday. They came away looking a bit glum.

A hastily called Pentagon meeting of Secretary of Defense Lovett and his budget experts followed immediately.

This gave rise to speculation that total estimates for the needs of the armed forces and for related items like foreign aid—might run into presidential resistance.

If a downward revision is in order, Mr. Truman would need it shortly to get it into the overall national budget, due on Capitol Hill early next month.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of the House Military Appropriations Committee, said early this week he thought the armed forces would need about 50 billion dollars for the year starting next July.

Asked if he would comment on reports that an anti-corruption commission would be named soon, the President said no, he couldn't answer that.

More than two weeks ago he told his news conference he intended to set up a house-cleaning agency.

Only One Atheist Is Found by Spellman In Korean Tour

By O. H. P. KING

Aboard the U. S. S. Wisconsin off Korea, Dec. 28 (AP)—(Delayed in Transmission)—His arduous tour of the Korean battlefield at an end, Francis Cardinal Spellman rested tonight aboard this American battleship and told of the things he had seen and heard on the war-torn peninsula.

"Of the thousands of soldiers I have met," he said, "I met only one boy who said he was an atheist. And I met men of all faiths."

The Catholic prelate, spry and energetic despite his 63 years and many travels, said the atheist volunteered his lack of faith.

"But he came to shake my hand just the same," the cardinal recounted. "I smiled and told him I hope you live long enough to get over it."

"One cannot help but be inspired by the spirit of the American soldier who sacrifices and suffers with heroism at the call to serve his country."

Proud of Americans

"Naturally I'm proud of my countrymen who have done so much to help so many stricken people."

The archbishop of New York came aboard the battleship late Friday by helicopter after visiting nearly every United Nations unit in Korea. His tour began shortly before Christmas. During the trip he conferred with high military leaders and South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Asked in an interview what he would propose as a solution to the Korean situation and to Communist pressure elsewhere, the cardinal replied:

"That's a large order. As an American I support the basic policy of the United States Government to be hope for independence for every nation, great and small, and to help every nation to progress and prosper in the ways of peace."

Republican Estimates Truman Could Win

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—A Republican congressman said today President Truman could be re-elected—if the election were held now.

Rep. Crawford, of Michigan, told a reporter he has been sampling the political pulse in his home state. He said Mr. Truman probably could carry Michigan against any Republican mentioned for the GOP nomination.

In 1948 Michigan went Republican.

Crawford said he'd found a good deal of sentiment among Michigan Republicans for a Taft-McCarthy ticket.

A Taft man himself, Crawford said he thought Mr. Truman had been hurt by recent exposure of irregularities in the nation's tax collection system, but not enough to keep him from being re-elected.

GRACIE TO WED—Gracie Fields, famed British music hall star well known to millions of Americans, announced she will marry Romanian architect Abraham Boris Altorevich on the Isle of Capri late in January. The 54-year-old comedienne is the widow of the late Monty Banks, movie director.

Nation's Business Same Despite Mobilization

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The nation's business activity, despite rapid defense mobilization, is just about what it was a year ago.

The Federal Reserve Board, in a summary of business conditions released yesterday, reports:

Steel production, hourly earnings of factory workers, consumer incomes, retail prices and bank credits showed increases for November over a year ago.

But total industrial output, construction activity, employment and retail sales were about the same as last year and below mid-year levels.

Steel production and factory earnings hit all-time highs in November.

New construction starts remained about the same, but the value of contract awards declined. The number of housing units started in the first 11 months of 1951 was 21 per cent below the same period in 1950.

Christmas shopping sales about equalled those of last year.

Seven Million Pounds Of Clothing Sent Abroad

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Almost 7,000,000 pounds of clothing, blankets and shoes collected during Thanksgiving week is on its way around the world to aid victims of war and disasters.

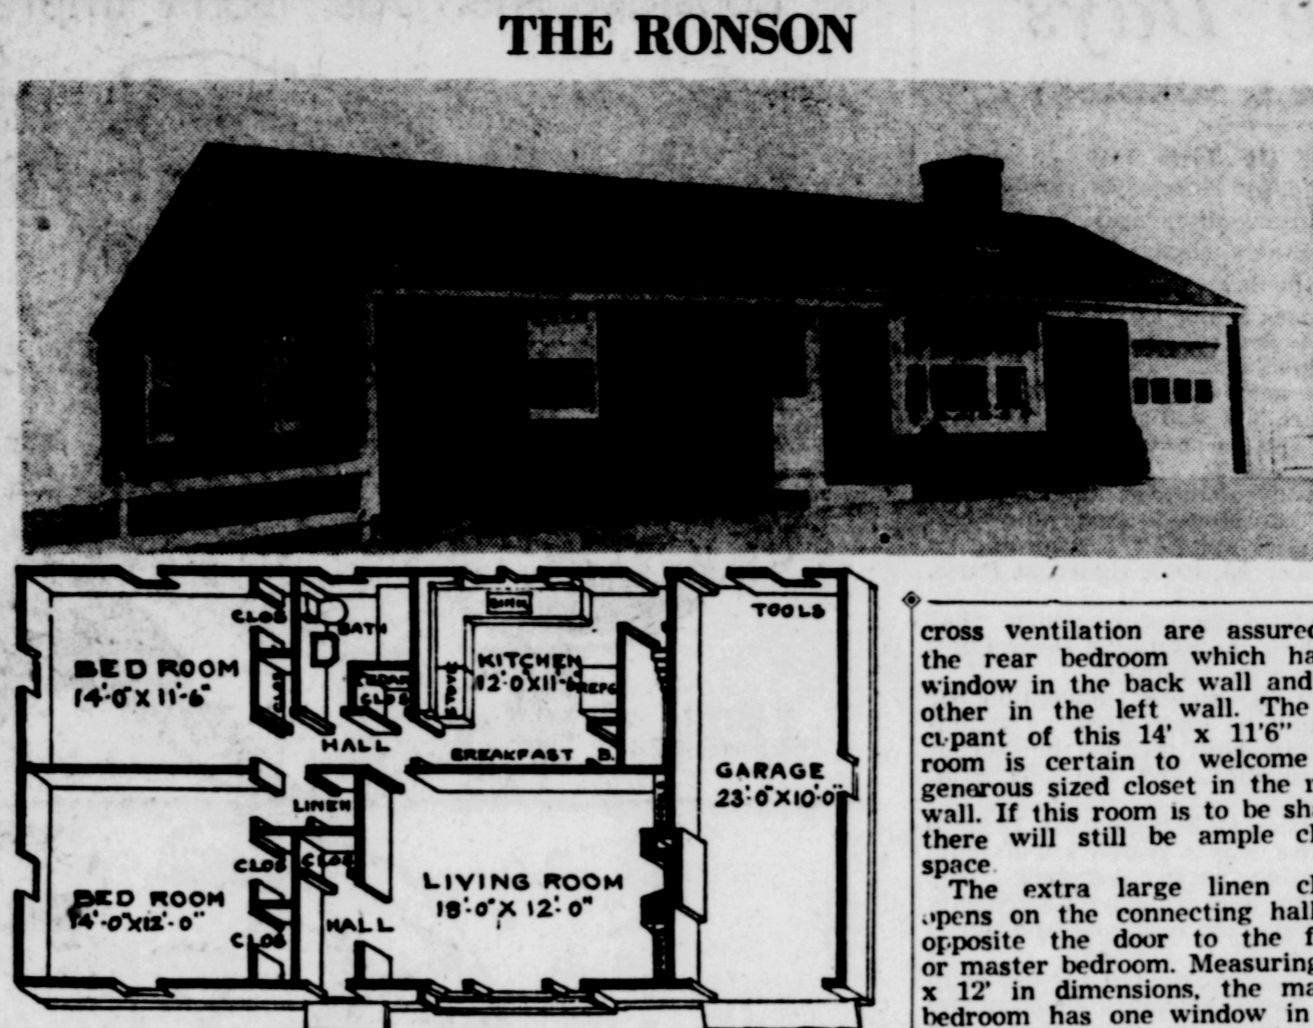

Announcement of shipment was made yesterday by Msgr. Edward E. Swannstrom, executive director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference which conducted the drive.

Among those who will receive articles are flood-stricken people in Italy, earthquake victims in the Philippines, refugees and exiles in Europe, and war victims in Korea.

CD Worker Suspended

Yonkers, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—A Civil Defense worker has been suspended for complaining that proposed uniforms for his aides would make them look like "circus clowns, storm troopers and space patrolmen."

The worker, Maj. Charles A. Palmer, a World War 2 veteran and an auxiliary CD police commander, earlier this week objected to the uniforms—white helmet, blue coveralls, white belt and short white leggings.

Stairs Require Safety, Beauty Important, Too

While the stairway should be designed primarily with an eye to utility, its styling should not be overlooked so far as it affects the decorative scheme.

Principal attention should be given to the safety of the staircase. It should rise at an angle not greater than 36 degrees, with a riser, height (the vertical distance between steps) of 7 1/2 inches with treads (the board you walk on) 10 inches wide.

Plenty of headroom should be provided so that even the tallest person need not duck his head while negotiating the stairs. There should also be sufficient space to permit the easy moving of large furniture.

Every home with an upper story should have a rear stairway, if possible, as a means of escape in case of fire. Although this adds somewhat to the cost of the house, it is well worth the price both in convenience and safety.

The treads should be covered with a material that will prevent slipping. A small light at top and bottom of the staircase will help prevent falls. A strong hand-rail should be provided.

It is often possible to utilize space beneath a stairway for a closet, which will provide convenient storage space.

The staircase should harmonize with the decorative scheme and add to the character of the home. Possibilities are almost limitless for thoughtful design of banisters. Some homes lend themselves to a curving staircase; others to stairs rising in sections at right angles with landings after five or six steps. Architects try to avoid straight unbroken stairways without landings.

Triple-Duty Bathroom

A California builder and contractor has developed a new three-way bathroom designed for greater convenience in lower-cost houses. The bathroom fixtures of this new plan are parallel, arranged against a common wall. The closet, lavatory, tub and shower stall areas are separated from each other by partitions. The closet and lavatory spaces also have separate entrances from the main hall.

Eliminate Paint Remover

When paint-and-varnish remover is used, all traces of it should be eliminated before applying a new finishing coat. Turpentine, mineral spirits, or a product especially devised for the purpose, can be employed. Most removers contain wax. No varnish, paint or enamel will dry properly when applied over wax.

Tints and Shades

When you mix white with a paint color to lighten it, you have a tint of that color. When you mix black you have a shade. When you add both black and white, you have a tone or "grayed" color.

Judicious Use of Red

Red is a color to be used judiciously. On too large areas it is overpowering, irritating. Used as an accent color, it lends life and gaiety to less interesting surfaces.

THE RONSON

Combines Modern and Traditional Charms

Rooms Four Bedrooms Two
Closets Eight
Cubage 23,200 ft.
Dimensions 51' x 24'

The straight, simple architectural lines of "The Ronson" are broken by the exterior canopy effect over and around the three windows grouped in the front living room wall. This decorative wooden canopy adds a distinctive touch to the house exterior; gives it a somewhat quaint, old-fashioned charm.

Measuring 51' x 24', "The Ronson" has a cubage of 23,200 feet. At least a 75 foot lot would be required for this house and attached garage. While any type of exterior finish can be successfully used on "The Ronson", shingles, as used in the illustration, seem most appropriate.

Equally at home in the city or country, "The Ronson" could be painted a barn red if you build it in a rural or suburban location.

Of course, before selecting any color for the exterior of this or any other house one should take into consideration the colors used on neighboring homes.

Extra light is provided for the good sized entry hall by the nine paneled window in the upper half of the front door. The conveniently large coat closet is located in the back wall of the hallway. An open archway in the right hall opens on the 18' x 12' living room.

Dual Purpose Room

Largest of all the rooms in "The Ronson," the living room can serve as both a family gathering spot and a place in which to serve family and formal dinners. In addition to giving extra decorative appeal to this pleasant room, the three windows in the front wall admit ample light and ventilation.

Centered in the right wall of the room is a large fireplace—this should be the focal point of decorative interest, the point around which you plan your furniture grouping, etc. Built-in bookshelves line the right wall from the fireplace to the front and back walls of the room.

The long unbroken expanse of jack wall in the living room could easily accommodate placement of heavy furniture pieces. In this area of the room would make an excellent location for your dining room set. The door in the back wall leads to the central hallway connecting with all the rooms in "The Ronson."

Thoroughly modern and well planned, the kitchen is larger than many kitchens found in today's homes, thus, it easily holds a good sized breakfast nook in addition to the usual array of working counters, cupboards and cabinets.

Against the left end of the L-shaped array of working counters is the selected location for the stove. The sink is placed under the double windows in the back hall of the 12' x 11' kitchen. Directly opposite the stove, against the right wall of the kitchen, would be the best place to put your refrigerator.

Large Broom Closet

Larger than average, the broom closet, placed just to the right of the refrigerator, makes a convenient storage spot for your mops, dust clothes and all types of cleaning equipment. Stairs to the basement open off the right back section of the kitchen, opposite the door leading to the back yard.

If you wish a protected entrance to the garage a roof could be built from the back door of the house to the back garage door, forming a sort of canopy that will prove especially useful in wet, stormy weather.

Receiving light and ventilation through the window in the back wall as well as through the window in the right wall, the garage is 23' x 10' in dimensions. Containing ample overhead storage space this garage also is large enough to hold a special tool storage compartment; this should be placed near the window in the back wall.

Have the extra closet, opening on the central hallway between the kitchen and the bath, lined with cedar and you'll have a spacious and safe summer storage place for your fine wools and winter clothing. The bath is designed to hold a tub and an overhead shower; it is sufficiently lighted and ventilated by the one window in the back wall.

There is another extra closet opening on the connecting hallway just before the door to the back bedroom. Good lighting and

New Closet Light

A new automatic light for the closet is a one-piece automatic closet unit which can be installed in a few minutes. The switch operates automatically by the action of the closet door on the push button. The light goes on when the door is opened, goes off when it is closed.

Basement Drainage

The basement floor should slope uniformly toward a floor drain.

REMEMBERING KOREAN VETERANS

The Kingston project underway to see that our local men on the fighting fields of Korea receive an album of local pictures is one of the most worthy causes we have been privileged to support during this year, which now is coming to a close.

These reminders of the home town are bound to produce many pleasant and tender memories for the young men on the battlefields of Korea. Hopeful and cheerful, despite their lot, our local young men will look forward to the path that one day will lead to their return to these home surroundings. This outlook before them always seems to hold a brighter promise than the one they already have covered.

Sponsors of the project are local public-spirited citizens, many of whom had the experience of serving their country on far-flung battlefields of the world and know what it means to receive a reminder of their home town. The costs in connection with preparing and shipping these picture albums to the Kingston veterans in Korea will be met by the sponsors, who prefer to remain anonymous.

The album will contain photographs of local scenes and also of members of the veterans' families, if the families so desire. There will be no charge to the families, as the costs will be borne by the local group sponsoring this very worthwhile project.

Any family desirous of having pictures of a personal nature included in the album should contact the Lipgar Photo Studio and make arrangements to have the pictures taken by the studio. There will be no cost to the family as the fund being raised by the sponsors, who do not seek publicity, will take care of all the charges. Where no family picture is requested, an album of entire local scenes will be shipped to the Kingston veteran in Korea.

We salute the originator and also the sponsor of this project, which we are sure will be of inestimable value to the Kingston veteran on the Korean fighting front.

GOOD GOVERNMENT WORKERS

One of the ways to keep government service free of inefficiency and corruption is to see that men of integrity and ability are chosen for both elective and appointive jobs. But inefficiency and dishonesty in some government offices tend to drive able and ethical men away from accepting all public jobs. Men of good record and reputation hesitate to accept posts where the ineptness or corruption of either superiors or subordinates may damage their good name.

There are many other reasons why government service is not always attractive to men of ability. Pay is often not proportionate to the responsibility. Even blameless men shrink from the possibility of Congressional investigation which seems to be an occupational hazard for those who hold high positions in Washington. Industry and professions offer able men better opportunities for satisfying personal ambitions.

It is reported that President Truman is having an increasingly difficult time in securing men to fill many high positions. This could prove one of the country's most serious manpower shortages for there has never been a greater need for well-managed government agencies. We have to keep good men in public service and to attract others with high qualifications. A determined campaign to chase corrupt and inefficient men out of public jobs might be one big step toward getting the kind of people we need.

There are various maxims to the effect that saying and doing are two different things, and the fact testifies to the number of persons who substitute saying for doing. Perhaps some day there will be an equal abundance of maxims paying tribute to those who do what they say they will do.

One of the troubles with tolerating an evil is that people may become so accustomed to it that they forget that it is evil.

THE LAW OF THE AIR

The questions raised by Hungary's ransom demand on American military fliers are:

1. Is the United States engaged in war with Hungary? If so, do the laws of war apply?
2. If the United States is not at war with Hungary, is that country a neutral in a war in which the United States is involved?
3. If Hungary is a neutral, what is the nature of the war and who are the belligerents?
4. Under which laws of nations were these fliers seized?

Since 1919, a vast body of international law and precedent has been established governing belligerent, neutral and civil aviation. According to the convention of October 13, 1919, signed at Paris, it was agreed:

"The high contracting parties recognize that every power has complete and exclusive sovereignty over the air space above its territory.
"For the purpose of the present convention the territory of a state shall be understood as including the national territory, both that of the mother country and of the colonies, and the territorial waters adjacent thereto."

The Havana convention of February 20, 1928, to which the United States was a party, stipulated: "The high contracting parties recognize that every state has complete and exclusive sovereignty over the air space above its territory and territorial waters."

Congress, on May 20, 1926, passed the air commerce act which laid down American fundamental law on the subject:

"The Congress hereby declares that the government of the United States has, to the exclusion of all foreign nations, complete sovereignty of the air space over the lands and waters of the United States, including the Canal Zone. Aircraft a part of the armed forces of any foreign nation shall not be navigated in the United States, including the Canal Zone, except in accordance with an authorization granted by the secretary of state."

In the Havana convention the contracting parties agreed: "To disarm and intern every rebel force crossing the boundaries, the expenses of internment to be borne by the state where public order may have been disturbed. The arms found in the hands of the rebels may be seized and withdrawn by the government of the country granting asylum, to be returned, once the struggle has ended, to the state in civil strife."

This principle is important in our difficulties with Hungary (although this document does not apply) because these fliers are not rebels against any country, nor can they be called spies. They simply lost their way and carried conventional equipment. Were they rebels or spies, against whom were they spying? If they were en route to Belgrade, and got lost, they could not have been spying on Hungary. This is a question of fact. Furthermore, are we at war with Hungary that they are alert to American spies? If so, when did Congress, according to our Constitution, declare war on Hungary?

The 1919 convention, amended in 1929, required "freedom of innocent passage." If fliers are lost, is it "innocent passage"?

In World War I, when the military airplane was introduced, it raised a new problem, namely, the ownership of the air. Neutral countries, such as the Netherlands, were concerned about planes flying over their territory. It was generally held that "belligerent aircraft had no right to enter neutral jurisdiction . . . disabled belligerent aircraft, aircraft trying to escape from the enemy, aircraft lost in fog or storm, were with their personnel forced to land and interned by neutral states . . ."

When belligerent aircraft passed over neutral territory without intending to land, they were fired at for the purpose of compelling them to do so."

Is the belligerency of this flight asserted? And if the plane were that of a belligerent, is Hungary a neutral, and what is the war? The Havana convention of 1928 and the Panama treaty of 1939 govern this question of the relations of belligerents and neutrals with regard to aircraft, but if we think of these fliers as being out of the United States, we are in a different position. Hungary is our enemy. This magnifies the problem greatly, but no other conclusion can be reached in terms of international law.

On April 18, 1942, an American military plane landed near Khabarovsk in Siberia, in the territory of Soviet Russia. That country was then in the European war but a neutral in our war with Japan. Soviet Russia interned the American fliers and their plane as belligerents in war flying into neutral territory.

In a word, the Soviet countries know no law and recognize none.

CARE OF ELDERLY FOLK

I write frequently about our aging population and of how the great increase in the percentage of elderly men and women living today has made a problem for physicians, health organizations and welfare organizations which have in mind the care and general happiness of this portion of our population.

It is known, of course, that the life span has been extended by 16 years during the past 50 years, but it is not generally known that during the past 10 years there has been a great increase in the number of people past 65 years in the United States and Canada; that whereas in 1940, there was 1 in 25 past 65 years in the United States, in 1950 there was 1 in every 12 of the entire population.

In Statistical Bulletin, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company it is stated that during the ages 65 to 69 many retire from active employment. Because many of these people are still capable of productive effort, they form a sizeable reservoir of manpower if there again should be a critical shortage.

Of these, more than one-fourth of the employed men at 65 and over are working in agriculture. Next in numbers are the service industries, trade and manufacturing. The proportion of elderly men in manufacturing is considerably smaller than those in agriculture. This shows that there is a tendency for men in manufacturing to retire much earlier in life than men engaged in farming.

While studying this matter of the elderly, most of us have in mind their economic condition and whether they are able to support themselves as to food, clothing and housing, but it is pointed out that many elderly men and women have needs in life other than economic.

"Our older people have many unmet social and emotional needs. The numerous programs now being formulated both nationally and locally should go a long way toward solving the more acute of these problems faced by our elderly men and women."

Although old age security pensions remove a great burden, and the elderly individual feels that he has "done his bit" during his life time and is entitled to it, yet, as stated above, there are the other needs in his life—companions, entertainment, joining and working with organizations devoted to the furthering of the welfare of the community.

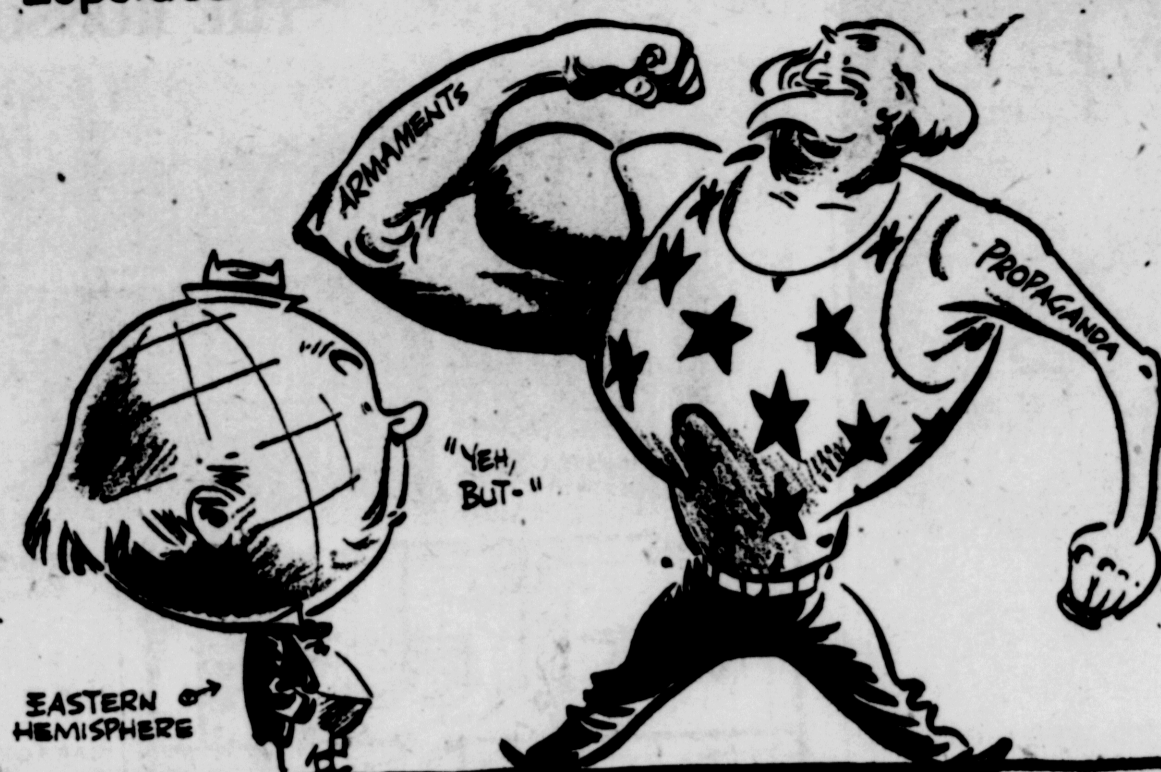

The great increase in the percentage of elderly people should make us all do more thinking about the other fellow.

Lopsided Men Just Don't Impress This Fellow

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note.—The following column in Drew Pearson's series on tax-wire pulling and government corruption deals with influences inside the Roosevelt administration.)

Washington.—It has frequently been possible, both in Republican and Democratic administrations, to escape tax-fraud prosecution if you are important enough and if you know the right people. The chief difference today is that the Truman administration has gone in for tax-fixing on a much broader and lower scale. Even unimportant people now can get their taxes fixed.

Several years ago, when Justice Tom Clark was attorney general, he was informed by his U. S. attorney in Los Angeles, Charles H. Carr, that Charlie Chaplin, the famed comedian, had a sealed income-tax indictment hanging over his head ever since the Harding administration. It had been kept secret and had not been prosecuted.

Why the Republicans indicted, but failed to prosecute, is not known. Carr did not prosecute either, and later left the U. S. Attorney's office to become president of the Del Mar Race Track, owned in part by Joe Schenck, president of 20th Century-Fox.

Carr, while U. S. attorney, had been given the job of investigating Schenck and certain other movie moguls. And though Schenck eventually was convicted in New York, Carr later wound up working for Schenck in Los Angeles. The other movie moguls were not prosecuted—why, nobody knows.

It sometimes happens that cases against men with influence lie dormant for years—sometimes until the Statute of Limitations expires. For instance, an FBI report on the bribe-taking of U. S. Court of Appeals Judge Martin T. Manton, gathered dust in the Justice Department—until forthright Frank Murphy became attorney general. He dusted off the files and sent Judge Manton to jail.

FDR's Record

Incidentally, Joe Numan, clerk to Judge Manton, and later Bob Hannagan's common-law wife, were in the background of the current congressional tax probe.

Frank Murphy's record in the Justice Department illustrates what President Truman could do if he appointed a courageous, crusading attorney general such as Francis Biddle or Estes Kefauver. He would need no corruption committee or Judge Tom Murphy if he made this one simple move. A forthright attorney general makes all the difference when it comes to corruption in government.

It also illustrates what happened under FDR. During the Roosevelt administration it was almost impossible to fix a tax case unless it was done right at the top—in the White House. In the Truman administration, the opposite is true. While Mr. Truman himself would never fix a case, taxes are fixed all over the place, and by all sorts of people. But under Roosevelt, nobody could get by easily.

Henry Morgenthau or crusading Frank Murphy with a fix, except FDR.

Some of the most important cases Roosevelt took a hand in involved Boss Frank McHale, Democratic National Committeeman from Indiana, Brown and Root, the Texas contractors who backed Lyndon Johnson; and Andrew Jackson Higgins, the Louisiana boss-builder.

"2nd Louisiana Purchase"—There was also the "Second Louisiana Purchase"—when prosecution of certain top politicians was stopped dead in its tracks by a phone call from the White House.

This occurred in 1940, after graft exposures by the Washington Merry-go-round caused Attorney General Frank Murphy to prosecute Louisiana's Gov. Dick Leche, Democratic National Committeeman Seymour Weiss, president of Louisiana State College J. Monroe Smith, Abe Shushan and various others.

Murphy, who loved to prosecute like a hound dog likes to chase rabbits, was in full chase and determined to draw blood, when something happened.

I first heard about it from the foreman of a grand jury in New Orleans who told how John Rogge, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division, was summoned from the jury room by a phone call from Washington. The jury was considering a hot oil conspiracy case between Mayor Robert Maestri of New Orleans and the late Bill Helis, otherwise known as the Golden Greek, and a partner of Frankie Costello.

When he came back from that Washington phone call, Rogge told the grand jury that their work was over.

Curious, I asked Frank Murphy what had happened. He admitted that he had called Rogge and instructed him to drop the case. He had done this, he said, on orders from the White House.

The President needed the support of the Louisiana delegation to be renominated in Chicago.

Thus was consummated, the "Second Louisiana Purchase."

The Old Jackson Higgins case took place at the height of Roosevelt's 1944 campaign for reelection. Andy was chairman of the Businessmen for Roosevelt Committee, and was slated to make an important speech in Philadelphia introducing FDR to a big campaign crowd just two weeks before election. But the night before the speech Higgins got word that Morgenthau's men had found him tax delinquent to the tune of about $1,000,000.

At this point Andrew Jackson Higgins became just as belligerent as the man for whom he was named. He served an ultimatum that instead of introducing the President next day he would come out publicly for Dewey. For one whole night before the Philadelphia speech, Howard Hunter, an assistant to Harry Hopkins, had to sit up holding Higgins' hands.

Finally Henry Morgenthau was persuaded to call off his men. Higgins made his speech, then retained Hugh Fulton, counsel to the Truman committee and close friend of the new vice-president. In the end Higgins was not prosecuted. He paid his taxes in installments.

These cases went against the grain of such men as Morgenthau and honest Harold Ickes. However, there were not many of them, and since only a few people very close to the White House knew about them, tax-fixing did not become contagious. In other words, lesser people down the line did not try to get in on the act as literally hundreds of people—from cabinet members down to collectors and U. S. attorneys—have done in the Truman administration.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Rules Are Flexible So Play Accordingly

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

"There are only two sound reasons for failing to return partner's suit," ran the rule of old fashioned bridge players. "The first reason is that you have no card in the suit to return; the second is sudden death."

We're not so rigid about rules in modern bridge. You return your partner's suit more often than not, but you may switch to a different suit without fearing that people will talk about you behind your back.

The hand shown today illustrates a successful switch that was based on sound reasoning. I'm afraid most players would miss the correct play because it goes a little against the grain.

West opened the jack of spades, dummy played low, and East won with the king. East knew that his partner had led the top of a sequence, so South obviously had the queen of spades. This meant that spades could not be established quickly, and only fast tricks could possibly defeat the contract.

East therefore shifted to clubs—by leading a low club up to dummy's king. He knew that this would defeat the contract if West could get in and could lead a second round of clubs. It was also clear that the contract was unbeatable if West could not get in at an early stage.

As it happened, South had to knock out the ace of diamonds to have any play at all for nine tricks. West returned a club after taking his ace of diamonds, and that was the end of South's chances for game.

Yugoslavs Are Warned

Budapest, Hungary, Dec. 29 (AP)—Hungary—rejecting Yugoslav claims to an island in the Mura river—warned her Balkan neighbor last night to keep off the disputed territory. The Hungarian note cited official maps signed by Yugoslav representatives during peace treaty talks after World War 1 to back up Hungary's claim to the island. Hungary last week accused Yugoslav woodcutters of "occupying" the island on Dec. 19. Yugoslavia replied that the island belonged to her.

During the Civil War, camels were used to carry the United States mail.

Points to 'Practical Side'

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace says the proposed 60 billion dollar federal budget makes his nine-year-old plan for American aid to backward peoples look practical now. "The only way to stop communism," Wallace said, "is to give the people in the Moslem world, in India, in South Korea, and in other so-called backward areas the tangible hope that we of the western world will really help them. I do not advocate doing away with our military budget, but I do ask that at first one per cent of it, and finally five per cent of it, be set aside as a peace budget in a realistic effort to win the sympathies of the world's most vulnerable people. They must be taught to help themselves."

Good Taste Today

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

FAMILY SALUTATION

A mother writes: "I was taken to task recently by my son for having addressed a letter to him and his wife as 'Dear Children.' He says that I should have addressed to 'Dear John and Mary.' I feel somewhat hurt about this and would like to know if I was wrong."

I don't want to criticize your son, but I can only think he must be very, very young to be so sensitive about his "grown-up" rating. For many generations, "Dear Children" has been accepted as a loving and proper salutation to a son and his wife, or a daughter and her husband.

Choosing Godparents

Dear Mrs. Post: Are there any rules governing the selection of godparents for a first baby? My husband's brother and his wife are expecting their first baby and since they were godparents for our first child, I naturally assumed that my husband and I would be asked to be the godparents. But instead, they are having the couple who was the best man and matron of honor. They insist that this is traditional.

Answer: To ask the best man and maid of honor is very usual—especially when they are not blood relations, because in this way they add to the number of persons who will take a loving interest in the baby. When families are very small, choosing godparents who add the loving interest of an extra aunt or uncle is very important. When families are very large, asking members of it to fill all three offices would be reasonable.

Fiftieth Wedding Present

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been invited to the fiftieth wedding anniversary of very dear friends of mine—I know the 50th year is gold, but I cannot afford to give anything expensive. Will you please tell me what else would be suitable to give on this occasion?

Answer: Anything in gilt or brass—or merely golden yellow—would be suitable.

Is it proper to use colored table linen? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but answers to questions about table linen, silver and table setting are included in booklet No. 504, "Table Setting." To obtain a copy send 25 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 90, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

It is understood that Mr. de Liagre is the sole owner of the American rights to Look to the Ant which goes into rehearsal in England next month with Alec Guinness and Eileen Herlie heading the cast. The vehicle will tour for six weeks in the provinces before its London presentation. A combination of comedy, fantasy and satire, the setting for the play is underground.

The program was arranged by Lecturer Percy Bush and his committee. Carols were sung by those present. Mrs. Albert Mason was the pianist, beside heading the December refreshment committee. Mrs. Mason substituted for the regular pianist, Mrs. Donald Parish. There were other numbers on the program. Santa Davis assisted in distributing the gifts exchanged by the members and refreshments were served.

Separates Are Next Season's News

For his resort-into-spring collection, designer Paul Parnes likes the slim coat dress, the softness of pale pastels, the brilliance of strong black-and-white. Coat dress (left) is pale pink linen, fastens down the front with rhinestones, has white collar and cuffs. White silk shantung (center) is coat dress also, has V-neckline and side pockets outlined in coral. Sheer black sheath dress (right) with pleated skirt has white pique bolero with black velvet collar. The coat dress, as shown here, is young and flattering.

By GAILE DUGAS,
NEA Woman's Editor

New York — (NEA) — It's a wise woman who knows that she's providing for spring and summer to come when she buys resort fashions in winter. However, to buy well and get the most for her money, she should arm herself in advance with a knowledge of fashion significances.

With such knowledge, she can choose fashions that will take hold, that will not die in infancy. This season, she should watch for dresses with little tops.

These little tops are jackets or capelets used in contrast to spreading skirts. The jacket may be Empire or it may be slightly longer.

Both the princess silhouette and the coat dress are important in resort collections. The coat dress is years younger than it was in seasons past and often very dressy. Sleeves are shapely, frequently terminating just below the elbow in an easy puff. Full sleeves sometimes blossom wide at a three-quarter length and are shown just as often with a slim skirt as with a full one.

From the resort-into-spring collection of designer Paul Parnes, comes the coat dress done in several versions. One is a slim pale pink linen fastened with rhinestone buttons. It has crisp white touches in collar and cuffs.

A second coat dress, in silk shantung, is clear white touched with coral at the V-neckline and side pockets. Rhinestone buttons also glitter here.

The little jacket appears in white pique over a sheath dress in sheer black crepe. A pleated skirt, slim in repose, full in motion. Black velvet is used as collar trim against the white of the jacket.

Music Project Is Planned at Jewish Center for Adults

Those of the community, whose avocation is music, will have a chance to join an orchestra planned by the Jewish Community Center, according to its president, Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, who has announced an organizational meeting for Thursday, Jan. 10.

The first session to make plans will be open to all music lovers at the Jewish Community Center, 265 Wall street, opening at 8 p. m. President Ewig said, and advised that Harry Simon, well-known local musical figure, would furnish professional direction for the group. Inquiries concerning the project may be made by addressing Murray M. Sklar, executive director, at the Community Center.

The program for those musically inclined, Ewig said, is the first of a series of recreational features scheduled to begin in January under the sponsorship of the Jewish center.

It was pointed out that musical director Simon has had extensive professional experience as well as a comprehensive musical training. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in music from the Fredonia State Teachers College.

In the United States Navy, he played with the service band in the Hawaiian Islands, and studied at the United States Navy School of Music under Robert Werner, clarinetist with the N. B. C. studio orchestra and Marvin Kam, nationally recognized authority on the saxophone. Simon has studied all the instruments of the band, as well as conducting, orchestration, arranging, music literature and theory, counterpoint and the Paul Hindemith harmony technique.

U. S. Fifth Air Force, Korea, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Fifth Air Force's weekly summary today said Communist ground fire knocked down two allied planes last week, a Thunderjet and a propeller-driven Mustang. Allied planes flew 3,245 sorties during the week despite bad weather.

Refuses Stamp Fight

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Post Office Department today flatly refused to get into an argument with anybody over the new Betsy Ross Stamp, to be issued at Philadelphia Jan. 2. Challenged by a Washington editor on the matter of historical accuracy, officials took the position that the story about Mrs. Ross making the first American flag is a beautiful story, true or not, and that the three-cent issue commemorating it is a beautiful stamp. And that, they said, is that.

Red Oil Goal Reached

Moscow, Dec. 29 (AP)—Russia's oil industry announced today it has reached its 1951 production goal yesterday, three days ahead of the deadline. There is no hard and fast estimate of Soviet crude oil production in 1951, but western embassy economic experts believe it is more than 40 million tons and the largest output in Soviet history.

When Not to Make a Canasta

To Wed Eccles

Marriner S. Eccles, Salt Lake City banker and former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has obtained a license to marry Mrs. Sara Madison Glasie (above), 43, of Chevy Chase, Md. By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service
When you have made your first canasta, don't be in a hurry to use up a wild card in the attempt to make a second canasta.

That wild card may be more useful to you in melding out or in freezing the pack. As long as you keep a deuce or joker in your hand, you can choose your tactics; once you have melded it, your play is forced.

Suppose, for example, that both sides have melded canastas and have melded fairly freely. The opponents have a canasta of aces, and you have a canasta of kings. Your side also has a meld of five queens and a joker.

At this time there are about a dozen cards left in the stock pile, and each player has seven or eight cards in his hand. You draw from the stock and then hold:

A-A J-J-9 3-2

You haven't seen any nines or jacks, so it would be dangerous to discard one of those cards. You can't discard an ace, because that would give the pack away at once. (You are following the official rules of course, so the opponent at your left can pick up a card that matches his closed canasta.)

Should you meld the deuce to complete the canasta of queens? You will then have one safe discard—the black three.

The answer is that you should not meld that deuce. Just discard the black three and await developments.

If your next draw is an ace or a jack you can meld out, provided you keep the deuce in your hand. You may be able to use the deuce to take the pack at your next turn, if an opponent throws a nine.

If your next draw is a safe discard you can throw it and maintain your position. That would have been possible, of course, even if you had melded the deuce. But if your next draw is an unsafe discard you can use your deuce to freeze the pack.

Then your aces will be safe discard, and you can probably last until the end. You will give up the canasta of queens, to be sure, but the ability to play safe may save you two or three thousand points.

For the five points of Canasta play, and Santa rules too, get Jacoby's CANASTA LAWS booklet. Just send 15 cents with your name and address to Oswald Jacoby, Box 488, Times Sq. Sta., New York 18, N. Y.

Price Ceilings Taken Off Rare Whiskey

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—OPS today took price ceiling off "rare, old, pre-prohibition" bottles of whiskey.

The decontrol order is effective January 3.

The Price Stabilization Agency held that the quantity of such pre-1918 whiskey is "very small" and can have "little or no effect on the cost of living." Most of the whiskey was distilled before the 18th Amendment became law and was bottled under bond before repeal, in 1933.

OFFICE CAT

"Honesty is the best policy," yet one might have expected a girl who found and returned a briefcase, containing $50,000 to be given a bigger reward than a dollar bill. Apparently, where it happened, contains some cheap individuals, even if they are carrying around with them fifty $1,000 bills in a briefcase.

Judge—You are accused of hitting the Chinaman on the head with a vase. What have you to say?
Prisoner—He was threatening me in broken English, so I replied in broken Chinese.

Did you hear about the fellow who played on a golf course that was so small you could only yell two?

Mike Finn (reading an epitaph in the cemetery)—"Not Dead But Sleeping." Sure, and that fellow isn't deceiving anybody but himself!"

Judy—Did you hear what the father fly said to his son when they were walking on a bald man's head?
Roddy—No. But it better be good.

Judy—Don't be hairless.

Carbon monoxide gives no warning. It is a silent killer that takes hundreds of lives annually in automobiles, garages and in homes. Don't tempt this creeping menace with faulty flues, stoves, chimneys or by running your car in a closed garage.

There is only one person who might have been given unlimited power without danger of its being abused. And we celebrate the memory of His birth this month.

Storekeeper—Yes, I want a good, bright boy to be partly indoors and partly outdoors.
Applicant—That's all right, but what becomes of me when the door slams?

History Teacher—In what battle did General Wolfe, hearing of victory, cry, "I die happy"?
Youngster—His last battle.

Automotive Hint
Many motorists make it a point to have their cars checked up in the spring. This is a very good plan, because winter usage is hard on the mechanism of an automobile.

Army Drafts Newk; Dodger Camp Stunned

Newk's Departure Big Blow to 1952 Chances

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Stunned by the news of Don Newcomb's acceptance by the Army, the Brooklyn Dodgers' front office was prepared today to waver from its "stand pat" policy and venture out into the open market to seek a replacement for the 20-game winner.

Newcomb's acceptance for military service, announced yesterday from Washington after weeks of delay and speculation, took the Dodgers by surprise. The big pitcher was examined by the Army early last month and it was expected he would be turned down because of a kidney condition, the same ailment which caused his discharge from the Army after brief service during World War 2.

Thus, Newcomb becomes the second Dodger pitcher to be called into service this year. The first was Erv Palica, also a right-hander, who entered the Army on Sept. 18.

"Certainly the loss of a pitcher of Newcomb's stature is going to be a rough blow," said Walter F. O'Malley, president of the club. "But Uncle Sam comes first, and in the end I think this will turn out to be a very fine thing. It will be good for baseball, too, because it lets people know that even being a prominent athlete brings no favoritism."

O'Malley said the Dodgers' immediate plans to take up the slack of Newcomb's loss would develop along two lines. First, an intensive screening of talent in the vast farm system. Secondly, and perhaps most significant, at attempt to interest a rival National League club in a trade involving top flight players.

Newcomb 25 years old last June, won 46 games and lost 28 in his three years with the Dodgers. He would up with a 20-9 record last season and had a 3.29 run percentage. He has been married for six years and is childless.

Turner Fails To Impress Mob

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—The jury is still out on Gil Turner, boxing's "Rookie of the Year" for 1951.

Unbeaten Gil won decisively from Vic Cardell of Hartford, Conn., last night at Madison Square Garden in his New York and television debut but he was far from a polished, finished workman in his 27th straight victory.

Although George Katz, his manager, talks about a welter title shot with Kid Gavilan, the 21-year-old kid who beat game

Cardell is not ready yet for any Kid Gavilan.

Extra anxious to make a sensational showing for the network TV fans and the 4,851 customers paying $15.206, Turner walked into too many punches. Even when he was blinding Cardell with the speed and fury of his frequent flurries, he was getting nailed with "sucker" rights.

Let there be no mistake about the fight. Turner won from here to there, 9-1 on the AP card. Judge Harold Barnes also saw it 9-1. Judge Charley Shortell had it 8-2 and Referee Harry Kessler 7-1 with two even.

Turner, who weighed 145½ to Cardell's 146, poured leather at Vic most of the night. Although Vic was on the catching end most of the time, he drew cheers from the crowd with a game closing rally in the face of heavy fire. There were no knockdowns.

Siena Cagers Face Heavy Schedule

Siena's cagers reach the halfway mark of their intensive holiday home schedule by meeting Lafayette tonight at the Albany Armory.

The card continues Monday night at 8 p. m. against Arizona State of Tempe and ends Thursday with Temple.

Fights Last Night

'Old Timers' Program Jampacks YMCA Gym

It was arnica and old aches night at the YMCA last night as some 250 fans watched former local basketball greats renew traditional rivalries in a nostalgic setting that created laughs, cheers and good-natured jeers.

For the record, the re-incarnation of the Spinny's Radio Five of Port Ewen came up with a great second half attack, sparked by Bing Van Etten, to defeat their old nemesis, the Chandlers, 26-21.

Charlie Bock, the former KHS wizard, showed that Father Time had not completely dimmed the magic of his shooting irons, when he racked up 10 points to lead the Clermonts to a 23-22 squeaker over Eddie Coughlin's Kendalls.

Lou Schafer, the Y physical director who arranged the Old Timers Night and re-union, kept the program moving at a lively clip. Following the games, the players and families and fans were treated to refreshments.

"Pop" Hinds Attends

Schafer, who was the master of ceremonies, official greeter and referee, introduced a bevy of familiar sports figures including Frank "Pop" Hinds, original Chandler coach, who came up from New York; Edmund Coughlin, Kendall sponsor to whom he referred as "Eddie Kendall"; Bud Culloton, one time Spinny coach; Joe Blass, Tommy Davitt, and Earle O. Terwilliger, original manager of Spinny's, who attended in the role of spectator. The former strong man of the Spinny's is making a nice recovery from a recent illness.

Davitt in turn introduced the principals in the feature contest and called Chet Fox something like Chet Krum (no doubt thinking of the old Rondout A. C. baseball days).

"Pop" Hinds spoke briefly and said he was thrilled to be part of such an occasion. Mrs. Hinds was also introduced to the huge crowd. A moment of silent prayer was observed for the late LeRoy Longendyke, sponsor of Chandlers; Fred Spinneweber, Spinny's sponsor and Carl Husta, professional great who died this year.

While in Kingston, "Pop" Hinds was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Fox.

Variety of Styles

Although both teams stressed possession basketball and set pattern of shooting in their heyday, it was obvious last night that they have been watching the kids of the modern era.

Instead of possession basketball they produced a wild mixture of play that more closely resembled the mob basketball of the lunch period in the KHS gym.

The Chandlers ran up an 11-5 lead at the half and threatened to turn the feature game into a rout until Normie Niles, still a roly-poly and Chet Fox began to find the range. The game was a long scoring spurt that safely outdistanced the Chandlers.

Niles came up with nine points and Fox contributed six to the winning total. Van Etten's old left handed hook shots were still effective and he led his side with nine points. Spinny's used six players and everyone crashed the scoring column.

As a matter of fact, only Joe Dulin, of the eleven players who saw action, failed to score and he narrowly missed several times. Dan Joyce thrilled the gallery with attempts for set shots from long range and finally connected with one.

17 Attend YMCA Day Camp Reunion

The YMCA Pine Knoll Day camp reunion attracted 117 campers at the Y Thursday afternoon, 10 Schaffer, Day Camp director, announced this morning.

After a word of welcome by the camp director, Clarence Corelli, boys' work secretary, told a story and Fred Van Deusen entertained with his tricks of magic. Movies shown by Frank Schilling also were featured.

Following the films, Schaffer mentioned some of the new aspects for the 1952 camp program. During this part of the session, W. L. Burnett, DeWitt Lake owner, was introduced to the young campers.

Dear Movie Lovers,

We are going to show a film called "DISTANT DRUMS"

at our KINGSTON Theatre starting New Year's Day, Tuesday, Jan. 1st, which is just my type of picture. It is an American adventure story, photographed in really gorgeous Technicolor in the tropical jungle of Florida's Everglades. Plenty of Indians, shooting, undersea fighting, a swell romance, and happy ending. Gary Cooper is the star, and he has always been one of my favorites. I haven't enjoyed an adventure story as much since "King Solomon's Mines." All in all, "DISTANT DRUMS" is tremendous entertainment for folks who like pictures the way I do.

I've tried to think of how I could best tell you that here is a picture you should be sure to see. This little message seems the most direct way of doing it. All I can say, folks, is that if you want a terrific package of good solid movie entertainment, "DISTANT DRUMS" is your dish, and the week starting New Year's Day is the time to come to THE KINGSTON THEATRE.

With best wishes for a healthy, happy and prosperous New Year.

Four Hurt in Plane

Picture Rocks, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—A pilot and three passengers were injured yesterday when their chartered plane made a crash landing in a field just outside the limits of this northern Pennsylvania borough. Alexander de Bello, Glenn R. Kays, N. Y., the pilot, said he encountered engine trouble as the plane was on a flight from Bradford to Flushing, N. Y. Walter Kronin, of New York city, was admitted to Muncy Valley Hospital with cuts of the head. His condition tonight was satisfactory.

Storm Had Good Effects

Chicago, Dec. 29 (AP)—Chicago's record and costly snowfall, a police official said today, had some benefits—no traffic fatalities in the last week. Capt. Michael J. Ahern of the traffic division said Chicago averages two traffic deaths every 24 hours. He also estimated that 1,800 persons were saved from traffic injuries in the last week. Thousands of cars were stalled in snow drifts and many motorists kept their cars in garages because of the street conditions.

To Study Steel Dispute

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board plans to meet Jan. 7 to start the delicate job of finding a settlement to the steel dispute. A possible stumbling block, however, is a Jan. 3 meeting of the United Steel Workers' wage-policy committee. The committee will pass on the strike question—and also decide whether the CIO union will agree to intervention in the dispute by the wage board.

Lunt in New Role

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—It was Alfred Lunt, stage director—and not stage star—last night. The veteran actor was the director for the first English-speaking version of the opera Ciofi Fan Tutte which was premiered at the Metropolitan Opera house. Lunt took a small part in the performance but did not sing.

Airman to Rescue

Canton, N. Y., Dec. 29 (AP)—A passing airman helped Walter J. Leonard when his car skidded into a snow bank. Charles Darling of Bucks Bridge saw that Leonard and his wife could not budge the automobile so he landed his ski-equipped Piper-Cub in a field and helped push the car free.

Seasonal Hobby Is

Entertaining Kiddies

New Paltz, Dec. 29—Fred W. Foertsch has a seasonal hobby that entertains the children in the neighborhood of his home at 74 Church street.

Each Christmas for the last 25 years, Foertsch has set up a Christmas tree surrounded by a miniature village filled with tiny houses, figurines, and streets with miniature replicas of trucks, cars and every kind of vehicle.

The entire display includes more than 500 separate pieces and involves almost two weeks of work to set up. Houses light up, tree lights flicker, and a 25-year-old electric train travels around the village.

Paltz Yule Group

Again Helps Needy

New Paltz, Dec. 29—The real Santa Claus in New Paltz is a composite of a gallant band of men and women who have for over 30 years seen to it that the needy families of the village have their Christmas cheer along with everyone else. This Christmas, a particular advantage he is on hand all year round.

The New Paltz Christmas committee operates with funds contributed by the people of the village. It provides food and clothing for families with children and others who need help.

For example, a basket for a family of five included this year ten cans of food, two chickens, two loaves of bread, candy, margarine, oranges, apples and a peck of potatoes. The committee packed 24 baskets this Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morris, Irving Millham and George Knickerbocker delivered them to the homes.

Dr. Roland Will, chairman of the committee, said that other organizations have aided greatly in the work. Sigma Tau Gamma, fraternity of the local college, gathers the canned goods for the baskets. The VFW each year sets up a center for receiving and repairing used toys. Apples are contributed by Kurtz Brothers and Mello Brothers, local fruit growers.

Repaired and repainted toys and contributed clothing are brought to the firehouse just before Christmas. A night is set when parents can come and select things for their children.

The committee also helps wherever needed all through the year. A fund is put to the disposal of the Campus School nurse.

name members of the supervisory group. Inspection teams would be allowed to use all main lines of communication throughout Korea. The first three points to be negotiated have agreed call for all fighting to stop within 24 hours after an armistice is signed, the withdrawal of troops from the demilitarized zone within 72 hours and withdrawal from islands of North Korea within three days.

Nuckols said UN acceptance of the principle of limited troop rotation does not mean the UN will reduce its rotation program. Presumably the UN allies would accept a rotation ceiling somewhere near the number of troops being rotated now.

The spokesman also emphasized that the UN would insist on replacing equipment worn out through normal use during the period of an armistice, but would not contemplate the replacement of the gear which became useless during hostilities.

Final Offer

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner told the Reds the new truce provision plan is the UN's final offer.

"We have now conceded to your unreasonable views all that we can concede. From this moment we have and shall have nothing further to propose."

"It is now clearly and unequivocally up to you. The future is in your hands," Turner said.

Turner told the Communists the United Nations to date have succeeded in trying to replace one half and half of the fifth and UN command felt were necessary to an armistice.

He said the UN allies gave up aerial inspection, island outposts, a single directing authority and military inspection. He said the UN surrendered six points of a fifth safeguard when they agreed to a limited rehabilitation of airfields. Only on the sixth safeguard, realistic ground defense positions, has the UN command won its point, Turner said.

The Reds said they would study the UN superior proposal overnight and comment on it Sunday.

Subcommittees on both prisoner exchange and truce supervision scheduled meetings for 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. Saturday EST) in Panmunjom.

The left front end of both vehicles were damaged in the collision, which occurred as Ricks, a U. S. Army member, was attempting to turn left from Route 32 into the Thruway entrance and Winnie was driving east on Route 32, troopers said.

ton in October 1777, and burned many of its buildings, it could be conjectured that Kingston might still be the capital of New York state.

Important, Says Wicks

"It is appropriate that Kingston should celebrate the 300th anniversary of the founding of our community here on the west bank of the beautiful Hudson river," wrote Senator Wicks.

"During its long and illustrious history, Kingston has played an important part in the affairs of our state and nation and its sons and daughters have substantially contributed to the course of progress in all fields of human endeavor. An inventory of the accomplishments of our city and its people would fill many volumes."

"Kingston, as a community, has a particularly appealing character. Its people are warm-hearted and friendly. I have visited many cities here and abroad and never have I found one that can favorably compare with Kingston in those respects."

"It is my wish and hope that our twentieth anniversary of 1952 will review our past experiences and accomplishments and that from its observance we all shall find fresh inspiration to rededicate ourselves to the further spiritual growth and material progress and advancement of our city."

President's Greetings

"The Dutch Colonial pioneers, considering the brief term of Dutch sovereignty in the territory which they settled in this country, left permanent monuments wherever they went. Particularly is this true in the Hudson river valley," said President Truman.

"It gives me great pleasure to send hearty felicitations and warmest personal greetings to all who participated in the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of Kingston. The community has had a long and varied history and I trust it will for generations come to come forward with progress to the achievement of ever greater things."

Sunday's Program

Mayor Sinclair of Kingston-on-Thames will send greetings Sunday at 2 p. m. to Kingston-on-Hudson and there will be interviews of citizens of the English town.

Mayor Newkirk on behalf of the citizens of Kingston will respond and Harry R. Rigby, Jr., a member of the Kingston City Planning Board, will give a historical background of the city. The Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, will speak on the spiritual significance of the celebration.

closed and the new Washington school opened.

Carroll pointed out that he had introduced several resolutions to that effect in the Common Council, and had presented a petition signed by more than 500 residents of the ward favoring such action.

Mayor Newkirk pointed out that the board of education has sole voice in the matter of what is to be done with School No. 8, and suggested Carroll present the matter to them.

Carroll contended that the city will have first preference in purchasing the old school building and that the money should be in the budget. Otherwise, he claimed, "we will get the same old excuse—no money in the budget."

$57,833 Increase

The tentative 1952 budget sets general government expenses at $1,187,533.05, an increase of $57,833 over 1951. Other expenses included $11,500 as the city's share in the operation of Kingston City Library, an increase of $400; a total of $40,035 for capital improvements (increase of $20,000 over 1951), and $388,085 for debt service (increase of $46,915.97).

Estimated revenues are $490,339.88, or $9,898.88 under this year's estimated revenues. In addition, there is an estimated surplus of $15,000 for 1951, whereas 1950 ended with a deficit estimated at $17,079.80.

The amount to be raised by taxation is $108,866.72 under the state-imposed two per cent tax limitation.

The tentative budget includes a $240 cost of living bonus for all regular employees of the police, fire, public works departments and those under jurisdiction of the Common Council. Excluded from the bonus are employees of the city laboratory and elected and appointed officials. A cost of living bonus of eight cents an hour is provided for extra employees on the basis of regular time only. This provision is the same as included in the 1951 budget and its total cost of $56,625.05 is also the same.

Raises Cost $45,360

Regular salaries of most employees other than elected and appointed officials have also been raised at a cost to the city of about $45,360, over the amount of regular salaries paid in 1951.

An appropriation of $9,640 is included in the estimate for city planning board. This figure—an increase from the $3,000 provided the same board in 1951—provides for a $5,000 payment for an aerial survey of the city and $1,000 for a traffic survey.

The zoning board was listed to receive $505 in the tentative budget, including $300 for stenographic services in redrafting the zoning ordinance and $100 for printing the ordinance. In 1951 the zoning board was provided with only $10.

The local Civilian Defense Council was provided with $3,500 in the tentative budget, an increase of $1,000.

Pensions Cost $83,501

The city's contribution to state retirement fund for police and fire and general government employees was up from $77,814 in 1951 to $83,501 in 1952.

The appropriation for the city laboratory was up from $137,808 in 1951 to $131,800. Salaries, however, in that department were up from $95,300 this year to $100,910 estimated in 1952, with part of the savings possible next year being attributed to the fact that this year it was necessary to pay off a 1950 deficit of $6,000. Estimated laboratory revenues in 1952 are placed at $119,225, including revenue from individuals, hospitals, blood bank, the state and county.

Another cut in appropriations was in the fund earmarked industrial and convent buildings, miscellaneous and contingent. That fund was cut from $1,000 it received this year to $500.

The amount designated for highway maintenance was $50,000—the same as this year's appropriation for that purpose.

New Postal . . .

The 70-pound limit in weight and 106 inches in length, in shirts, still holds, however, in garments from a first to a second, third or fourth class office, or between any of the offices out of those designated as first class.

Penny Postal Going

The one-cent post card goes out after Jan. 1, and the charge for 1952 will be two cents. Special delivery will increase from 15 to 20 cents plus regular postage and there will be increases in registered mail, insurance and on C.O.D. mail.

Postmaster Craft said that postal officials want the public to know that these are not post office regulations but are the result of a law passed by Congress. The postal department has fought them, he said, because it has felt that they are discriminatory where city and rural shipments are concerned.
